THIRSTING FOR BLOOD.

Mob's Unsuccessful Attempt to Find Subjects for a Lynching.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 22 .- Two attempts were made Friday by mobs to capture Harrison Fuller and Frank Simpson, both negroes, who were the cause of an attack upon the Lexington jail some nights ago. At Lexington a mob of citizens held up a train bound for Camden, where it was supposed the negroes had been taken for safe keeping, and forced the conductor to carry them to Hollow Rock. Here they at-tempted to bulldoze a Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis conductor to take them to Camden, but he bluffed them, threat-ened them with the consequences of holding up a mail train and the mob got off. Some, however, paid their way to Camden and found the negroes were not there and attempted to hold a freight train and make the conductor carry them without pay. But they did not succeed and have not yet located the prisoners. These are the same negroes who were attempted to be lynched at Lexington early last week and who fired on the attacking mob, killing and wounding several members. The negroes have been brought to this city for protection.

STEAMER ARRIVES WITH CORPSE OF MISS HUNT, AN ARTIST.

The Young Woman Became Violently Insane After the Vessel Sailed and Died When Nearly Over.

the huge four-master American line steamer Rhynland, Captain Loeswit, from Liverpool and Queenstown; with 139 saloon and 672 steerage passengers, drew up to the wharf to-day her flags were at halfmast and it was learned shortly afterward that Miss L. Hunt, a well-known Philadelphia artist, had died on board in great agony on the morning of the 20th inst.

The greatest reticence was maintained by all on board as to the cause of Miss Hunt's death, but it was admitted that for six days previous to her death she had been a raving maniac and had to be placed under surveillance. The deceased is said to have been suffering from nervous never thoroughly recovered, and early in June went abroad in the hope that the change would benefit her health. She traveled extensively through England, Germany and France. When she came on board the Rhynland at Liverpool, on the 11th inst., she seemed in perfect health and most cheerful, but hardly had the ship cleared the Irish coast than her peculiar saloon passengers. She became more and more violent until it was found necessary days previous to her death she suffered terribly and no medical skill seemed able to relieve her, although in addition to the ship's surgeon there were a number of killful physicians on board. When death came the ship was only few hundred miles from the capes, and on mendation of the surgeon the cap decided to have the body preserved by the passengers as being a beautiful lady of rare accomplishments, and the grie! and sympathy expressed for her by all on board was general. THE MISSING STEEL SHIP.

Lord Downshire Believed to Have Been Sunk in a Collision. PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.-It is now generally conceded that the four-masted Oscar collided, July 13, in latitude south; longitude 28:20 west, sinkher, with all hands, is the Lord Downshire, of Belfast, which was well known at this port. It appears to be generally believed at Lloyds' that this is generally believed at Lloyds' that this is the unknown ship, as she was known to have been in the locality of the collision just at that time, homeward bound from Caleta Bueno, from which port she sailed May 4 for Hamburg loaded with nitrate. So positive are the underwriters of this, owing to her tallying to such an extent with the ship which Captain Henderson, of the Prince Oscar, describes, that a premium of from eighty to eighty-five guineas is now being paid for her insurance.

The Lord Downshire is owned by what is known as the Irish Ship Owners' Association of Belfast, of which association Messrs. Thomas, Dixon & Sons are man-agers. SENSATIONAL EVIDENCE INTRO-DUCED IN GREENSBURG COURT.

Kentucky Horse Thief's Career on Indiana Soil-Tramp Passes Forged Orders in Brazil.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ANDERSON, Ind., Sept. 22 .- The prospects for an early closing of all the tinplate mills in the Indiana gas belt, and, for that matter, of the country, that have sprung up as a result of the McKinley tariff legislation, are very threatening. Mr. L. B. Jackson, who is president of the Middletown mill, one of the largest in the State, talked to a Journal representative about the situation as follows:

"There is not a factory in the United States that can run after the present supply of steel billets is consumed. Every one of them will be compelled to close down, and, in my opinion, remain closed till there is a revision of the tariff relating to tin plate. This is exactly what I mean. Under that law, with a tariff of PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 22.-When $2.10 on tin, we, as Americans, have been enabled to erect factories that are the marvel of the world, and will aggregate over $10,000,000 invested in that manufacture in this country. The business has been quite profitable till within the past few months, and I am certain that the certain wreckage of these industries, as the duty was reduced by that law to $1.10. That might have been all right providing the prices that prevailed during the panic could be maintained. But with the revival of business the price of steel billets has jumped from $18 and $19 per ton to $29, and we are powerless to compete with the be in competition with theirs. We cannot get a cent more for our product than we are now getting, and it will be impossible to turn out tin plates at the present rate

"We have enough steel at our mill to operate till the 1st of January; then we will be compelled to shut down, and I don't again, but not till the tariff has been revised or till the price of steel is reduced. That is exactly the condition of the tinplate mills the country over. When the supply of cheap steel is exhausted every plant will be compelled to shut down and GREENSBURG, Ind., Sept. 22.-The eviience given on Saturday in the Cooper will case was decidedly sensational, and the Cooper skeleton was still on exhibition. One witness testified that James Cooper, the testator, made Jennie Perry, his housekeeper, a present of a gold watch in the lifetime of his first wife. Mrs. Pickard said she kept a boarding house in Chicago during the World's Fair, and that James Cooper came to her house with two young women, and that the three occupied the same room. Central Normal College.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. DANVILLE, Ind., Sept. 22 .- The first term of the twentieth year of the Central Normal College is well under way, with an attendance that surpasses any term in previous years. The regular classes are far larger than usual, while late arrivals every week swell the total. The only change in the faculty is the accession of Professor Potter, caused by the resignation of Mrs. Mary Wilhoit on account of her health. A notable feature of this institution is the length of time the professors have been with it, more than half occupying the chairs which they now hold for over ten years. Over half the States in the Union are represented by the students, and everything indicates a most prosperous year.

Shortly before 12 o'clock last night the hot spell in this city and all over Indiana had its back broken square in the middle and all in the space of a few minutes at each place. A man who turned west on Market street from Pennsylvania, mopping his brow, felt a sudden and severe chill as he reached the Mounment place, so sudden was this change of temperature. A heavy gust of cool wind from the northwest was followed by a rush of winds that did not leave the atmosphere calm for several hours. Yesterday afternoon the thermometer reached 33 degrees, and at 7. o'clock in the evening it was at 82. At 1 o'clock this morning the thermometer at the courthouse tower indicated about 68, the wind blowing so strongly that the fireman stationed there could not hold a light on the outside for a sufficient time to accurately determine the register of the ther-

The cool wave was driven almost southward over the Rocky mountain States during the 20th and 21st, attended by snows and freezing weather in Colorado, the Dakotas and Nebraska. While there was some uncertainty as to the rapidity of the advance of this cool wave to the eastward when it first appeared in the extreme Northwest, there were strong probabilities on Saturday that it would extend over the central valleys to-night, and such notice was given, while the morning report of to-day justified a wide distribution of the emergency warnings also referred to.
